Propaganda Leaflet Distributed by North Korean Guerrillas in South Korea

The leaflet is written in English, in longhand, and is printed or mimeographed on very tough fibrous paper. The text follows:

Dear American Soldiers!

What do you think about the war? War is not our will except the Wall-Street financial monopolists to whom the war gives sweet and surplus profits.

Will you change your noble lives with their surplus profits? Against their will, in Korea, the war did not bring their desirable expected result, but complete failure has come near at hand.

You might have known well how Korean people and their armed forces are infinit.

The mist cold season has come, the Korean armed forces will be expanded with the greatest power. However your armed forces attack us, it can not defeat our will for freedom and independence of our Korean Democratic People's Republic.

Dear American soldiers! We know well you are not our enemies. The only enemies are the Wall-Street monopolists.

Return to your home where your families are longing to see you! Don't forget your darlies' expectation!

For the peace of world, for the freedom and independence of small nations, and for your darlies, stand up against the war! Stand up against the war! Stand up for the lasting peace of world!

Stop the war, return to your home!
